

The background of the page features a large, abstract illustration. It depicts a figure, possibly a person, riding a large, gray animal that resembles a bull or an elephant. The animal's head is on the right, with large, dark eyes and a trunk-like structure. The rider is a small, dark silhouette positioned on the animal's back. A prominent, thick yellow line curves across the scene, passing behind the animal. The overall style is graphic and minimalist, using bold black outlines and flat areas of gray and yellow.

PG Essays

a special selection